1. Regularly attend and participate in monthly board meetings. If a member is unable to attend a meeting, the member shall advise the Chairperson or Commission Program Administrator (or their representative) of the member's prospective absence.
 2. Annually visit at least one (1) regularly scheduled or otherwise pre-arranged site visit to an assigned contractor and report findings to the BWC.
 3. Participate on committees as assigned by the Chairperson or Vice-Chairperson.
- B. Roles of commissioners in engagement with the public and with Behavioral Wellness service providers:
1. In engaging with the public, commissioners are welcome to introduce themselves as serving on the commission. Commissioners can and should listen to community concerns, and seek to agendaize appropriate concerns for commission discussion.
 2. Commissioners should not represent that the commission therefore supports or opposes concerns in the community without agendaizing discussion of the concern with the commission, and without a majority vote of the commission members in favor of taking action.

3. If engaging in a discussion where they will express their views on something that has not been agendaized or had action taken on it in the past, commission members must state that the views they express are their own, and do not represent the commission's position on the matter.
4. Use of official Commission letterhead is only allowed when the commission has agendaized a matter for review, and agreed to formally respond. Such a formal response is to be drafted by the chair or a commissioner designated and approved by the commission. That drafted letter must be presented to the commission as an agenda item, and approved by a vote of the majority.
5. No commissioner is authorized to use official commission letterhead to convey their opinions or concerns on any subject to entities external to the commission without subjecting it to approval by the entire commission in the manner described above.
